Inaugural Meeting of the National Coral Research Group of PSC and the 1st Coral Symposium Held in Fuzhou, Fujian Province (Oct. 27—31, 1982)

The inaugural meeting of the National Coral Research Group of PSC and the first coral symposium were held from Oct. 27th to Oct. 31st in Fuzhou, Fujian Province. Over 75 coral workers representing some 50 organizations, including research institutes, geological surveys, university geology departments and geological colleges, attended the meeting. This is the first assembly of coral workers over the whole country for many years past, and marks a new stage in coral studies of China.

At the opening meeting, congratulations sent by the veteran palaeontologists, Profs. Yin Zan-xun and Yoh Sen-xun, as well as by young palaeontologists now studying abroad, were read. A comprehensive review on the achievements acquired in the past 100 years of coral research in China is given in a collective paper. Professor Wang Hong-zhen delivered a speech by the title "Problems of the coral Palaeobiogeography of China and a Perspective of Coral Research". He pointed out the relation of coral research with crustal movements, palaeogeography and palaeoclimatology, and its implementation on the prospecting of petroleum and sedimentary mineral deposits. Over 20 papers dealing with various subjects, from biostratigraphy to palaeobiogeography, from enealogy to ecology of corals, were read and fully discussed at the group meetings.

At the close meeting, the regulation of the Research Group was adopted, and the following members were elected to the office: Wang Hong-zhen (chairman), Lin Bao-yu (vice chairman and secretary), Wu Wang-shi (vice chairman), Wang Zeng-ji (secretary), Zou Jen-jin, Jin Shan-yu, Jin Chun-tai, Lin Ying-dang, Yu Chang-min, Luo Jin-ding, Jia Hui-zhen.
